as we see it

With hundreds of applications for new stations before the Federal Communications Commission, it would appear that before long most of the Nation should have television. With adequate personnel, the FCC could process the applications, conduct hearings when two or more prospective station operators seek the same channel, and make decisions in short order.

A letter from Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.), to his colleagues in the Senate, however, indicates that the personnel of the FCC is far from adequate. Senator Johnson asserts that some 40 additional hearing examiners would be required if the backlog of applications is to be cleared up by mid-1954. He asks that the FCC appropriation be increased by $1,000,000 so that there will be no further delay in getting stations on the air.

At this time the FCC has only 12 examiners. According to Rosel H. Hyde, the new FCC chairman, it would take them at least five years to handle the 600 cases now pending before the Commission.

Certainly it is worth $1,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to bring television to the rest of our country as quickly as possible. One can criticize TV for its shortcomings, and we have done so in TV GUIDE when the situation warranted, but by and large everyone agrees that the medium is far too important to be confined to large cities alone.

The bulk of the pending applications are from comparatively small towns and it would behoove senators and representatives to heed Senator Johnson's advice and make it possible for all their constituents to receive TV service promptly.

The Senator's efforts also deserve the enthusiastic support of all citizens who stand to benefit if the additional appropriation is approved.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

Some of the biggest names ever assembled for a single TV show will appear on Ford's big two-hour anniversary program June 15. Probable starters: ETHEL BARRYMORE, MARY MARTIN, OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN II, ETHEL MERMAN, EDWARD R. MURROW, LOWELL THOMAS and KUKLA, FRAN and OLLIE. The unusual production will be aired simultaneously on both CBS and NBC.

To widen the scope of the Mr. Peepers show, the producers plan to have WALLY COX leave his schoolroom setting in the fall to enroll for post-graduate studies. Eventually, they'll marry him off on the show to PAT BENOIT . . . WALLY, incidentally, will star in a summer stock presentation of Three Men on a Horse starting in June.

Telefilm production booming this month in the East. ARNOLD STANG and ARTHUR TREACHER are teaming for a new series, while HENRY MORGAN has signed to write and star in a quarter-hour program lampooning wacky news events of the last 25 years. Towers of London, an independent British firm, is shooting a pilot film in Canada on exploits of the Royal Canadian Mounties, titled The Queen's Men.

JAN MURRAY signed to emcee a new giveaway show, titled 1,000 Francs . . . JERRY LESTER will emcee a CBS audience participation program in the fall. Titled Make a Million, it's to be produced by WALT FRAMER. . . BERT PARKS will have a new evening version of Double or Nothing this summer as replacement for Aldrich Family . . . JACKIE MILES, night club comedian, starring in a new telefilm series for NBC.

MARGUERITE PIAZZA making her night club debut this summer at Las Vegas' Sands Hotel . . . ROSEMARY CLOONEY, originally reported to be barred by her movie contract from doing a regular TV series, has signed with NBC. Look for her to replace the new Bob & Ray show on Monday nights in the near future.

Corridor D, Pentagon, in which a private eye will operate against a military background, on tap for a CBS debut this summer . . . Ladies Choice, new talent show starring young singer JOHNNY DUGAN and produced by STARK-LAYTON, bows on NBC June 8.

HOLLYWOOD — Arthur A. Engel reports:

KAY STARR starts her own musical show over ABC next month in the quarter-hour following WINCHELL; she'll be sponsored by a cigaret firm . . . HOAGY CARMICHAEL's Saturday Night Revue will feature GORDON JENKINS' orchestra June 6 and LES BROWN's June 20; in-between week is still unset due to difficulty of booking name bands here during their usual summertime barnstorming eastward.

ROBERT CUMMINGS' My Hero series has been renewed for another year . . . ABC is developing a third-dimensional projection system here for large-screen theater telecasts . . . BOB CROSBY will guest on most of ALAN YOUNG's remaining Time To Smile shows to pep them up.

As cheery LUCILLE BALL ran off the platform of the auditorium here after greeting TV executives at a convention, she spotted Cardinal J. Francis McIntyre in the wings awaiting his turn to deliver the opening address. "Okay, Cardinal," she said, "I've got them warmed up for you" . . . RAY MILLAND's series of 40 TV and radio Meet Mr. McNulty shows appear set on CBS come autumn.

GROUCHO MARX is in Manhattan for a couple of weeks' fun . . . GENE AUTRY is off to Europe next month . . . The JACK BENNYS will accompany BURNS and ALLEN on a Scandinavian cruise this summer . . . NBC wants HARRY JAMES to star in a musical revue from New York but he insists on working and living here . . . MARTIN and LEWIS will likely telecast their May 31 show from International Theater in New York; plan for a time was to stage it at Madison Square Garden in a charity tie-up.

CBS' TV Workshop here is brewing merry situation-comedies for summer and fall showings: Professional Father is tale of a child psychiatrist, successful at the office but troubled with his own brood at home; former Film Director EDDIE BUZZELL is preparing Third Girl From Right; FRANK GALEN is developing another tickler titled Vanity and Mrs. Fair; VERA VAGUE will be starred in Follow the Leader; and DEAN MILLER has the featured role in a quiz show for parents only, Anything For Baby? Movie Director FREDDIE DE CORDOVA was hired to create another funny feature titled, That's My Boy.

Boy singer JIMMY BOYD is to be starred in a 15-minute telefilm musical show being worked up here by CBS. . . . "It'll mean a new way of life for me," exults DANNY THOMAS of his new ABC telefilm series. "No more roaming around the country in night clubs; now I can stay home with my family." . . . TONY MARTIN will guest on the June 14 Toast of the Town . . . RONALD REAGAN played the lead in The Doctor Goes Home for Playhouse of Stars . . . The Mildred Pierce story is being developed into a telefilm series here; JOAN CRAWFORD refused lead so another star is now sought . . . RICHARD CRANE and SCOTTY BECKETT will star in the first 26 Rocky Jones, Space Ranger telefilms.

Good News FOR SUMMER

TELEVISION'S HOT WEATHER MENU BOASTS BIGGER AND BETTER SHOWS

Hoagy Carmichael: NBC has provided him with a super-budget show.

SUMMER television will be bigger and better than ever this year. That's the opinion of network executives.

Networks and sponsors, recalling that the slump in viewing last summer was much less than originally anticipated, are aiming at this year's hot weather audiences with high-powered ammunition.

The number of new TV set owners who have joined the ranks during the last year is also leading networks and sponsors to invest more money in their summer programs for 1953. Receivers this summer total nearly 24,000,000, as compared with about 17,000,000 at this time last year.

Arthur Godfrey's numerous programs top the list of rating leaders which will stay on through the summer. Godfrey, of course, entered a hospital earlier this month for surgery and will be absent from TV until September. But his shows, plus the "little Godfreys," remain. Garry Moore substitutes for Arthur on Talent Scouts, Robert Q. Lewis on the morning Arthur Godfrey Time and various guest emcees will fill in on Godfrey and Friends.

Many Shows Continue; New Talent Introduced

The Montgomerys: father and daughter

Unfortunately, there will be little experimental programming this summer. The networks have a number of sponsors willing to pay for summer shows, but not to gamble on untried programs, no matter how promising.

Reed Hadley's Racket Squad is expected to replace I Love Lucy while Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz make a feature-length movie. Milton Berle and his Star Theater will vacation for 13 weeks, with a new night-time version of Break the Bank substituting for the second half-hour.

Jack Webb has completed filming on his Dragnet series through November, and they'll ride through the summer. NBC's super-budget Saturday Night Revue, starring Hoagy Carmichael, and featuring new comedy talent and a different name band each week will replace Your Show of Shows.

All the hour-long dramatic programs will stay through the summer. Robert Montgomery again will have his repertory group, this year featuring his daughter, Elizabeth, co-starring with John Newland. Westinghouse Summer Theater is to be the title for the regular season's Studio One. Kraft Theater and TV Playhouse will continue as usual.

Crime programs and whodunits will also be well represented. Lee Tracy, as Martin Kane, Private Eye, rides through without a break; ditto for Roscoe Karns and his Rocky King, Detective. Ralph Bellamy is filming enough Man Against Crime episodes in advance to permit an unnoticeable summer vacation.

Most of the top-rated panel and quiz shows will bypass vacations. John Daly rides straight through the summer at the helm of What's My Line? and It's News to Me. Name's the Same is also expected to continue. Groucho Marx will repeat the best of his You Bet Your Life. Herb Shriner and Two for the Money will stay.

Summer viewers will have a full

No matter what their names, to millions of children they are Clarabell, Howdy Doody, Princess Summerfall Winterspring and Buffalo Bob, citizens of a wonder land.

HOW THOSE TOTS HOWL FOR HOWDY DOODY!

Is the program fun? Here's your answer.

JUST 50 youngsters can be crowded into the gallery for the Howdy Doody show (NBC) while their parents wait in a nearby corridor. The demand for tickets is heavy.

For the lucky tots who get in, the show provides plenty of laughter as they watch such familiar performers as Buffalo Bob (Bob Smith), Clarabell (Bobby Nicholson), the Princess (Judy Tyler), Chief Thunderthud (Bill Lecornec) and Howdy. Lee Carney operates the puppet, replacing Rhoda Mann, who was with the program when it started.

Howdy keeps them howling, as the accompanying pictures demonstrate.

BIRTH OF A Telefilm

Crown Theater Starts Shooting

With CROSBY CASH and SWANSON CLASS

GLAMOR that sells merchandise is the television order of the day. That's why Gloria Swanson was selected mistress of ceremonies of the Crown Theater series of telefilms now being produced by Bing Crosby Enterprises.

Three years ago Crosby decided to invest some of his mushrooming funds in television, with long-time employee Basil Grillo in charge. They began by syndicating two film series, Royal Playhouse and Rebound to stations and sponsors. About eight months ago, the increasing demand for programming moved them to production of a new series of drama shows, featuring prominent talent in stories by leading writers.

Outlay May Hit Million

At an average cost of between $25,000 to $30,000 each, this will total an overall outlay of nearly $1,000,000. No more than a year ago, these same pictures would have cost around $20,000 each but zooming labor scales have forced the higher budgets. Whereas other TV film producers must scurry here and there for financial backing, the ever-prosperous Bing Crosby Enterprises need only transfer it from one account to another as an extended investment.

The initial decision made, Grillo bought stories from writers Louis Bromfield, Richard Llewellyn, D. D. Beauchamp, Walter Doniger, Leonard Merrick, William Bruckner, Herbert Dalmas, Muriel Ray Bolton and other top authors.

Recognizing television's enlarging market for prominent talent, established performers were contracted for each picture, including Charles Winninger, George Brent, Claude Dauphin, John Litel, George Macready and Bobby Driscoll.

Hereupon it was decided the most profitable manner of selling these films in the present television situation would be, not to a single national advertiser, but to regional and local sponsors. For effective distribution this required an outstanding star, able to act, of course, and willing to traipse around the country plugging the pictures. Miss Swanson was the versatile answer.

While she has roles in only four of the series, she will "introduce" all 26 as mistress of ceremonies. "Doing a series such as this," she says, "is harder than anything I've ever done—and that includes trying to top Sunset Boulevard. But I like television." And besides, with Crown Theater in so many cities, the sale of Gloria Swanson Originals, her dress line, should boom, too. With some regional sponsors already set, this appraisal is typically shrewd.

Denver Pyle and Miss Swanson making The Last Duchess, one of the telefilms.

Swanson Uses Common Sense

This same common-sense approach prevails in her Crown Theater appearances. She does not fear lost illusions, so you will see her announce one of these films, Choice of Weapons, clad in the undecorative swimming clothes of her Mack Sennett "bathing beauty" days, far from the chic attire that led to her glittering screen successes.

Yet the aura of the old-time movie queen still clings to her. On the set of the Hal Roach studios where this series was filmed, meals were catered from an outside restaurant to please her exacting tastes. Production details were to her liking, or else she stated her views unhesitatingly. Others may forget that once a queen always a queen, but not Gloria Swanson.

Still, she candidly recalls video's pioneer days in 1948 when her career was drifting and she starred in The Gloria Swanson Hour over WPIX in New York City. Engineers dominated the station, electro-engineers were supposedly "cameramen" and services were so lacking she was forced to apply her own makeup. She, Gloria Swanson!

Topping all, however, was the show in which the stage seemed dimly lighted. "Awfully dark here," she ad-libbed, looking about for the reason. She quickly found it. Offstage, the electrician responsible for lighting stood enthralled as he watched the show, completely forgetful of his job. Worse yet, he couldn't be prompted

Miss Swanson being made up for her role to which she brings glamor of her original "heyday" era in films.

The veteran actress in a serious mood as she awaits her cue during studio rehearsal.

to switch on the lights and finally the butler in the play put them on, with the telecast then proceeding.

Name Aids Promotion

As a performer with national name value, along with freedom and willingness to cooperate in regional and local promotions, Miss Swanson will help the programs succeed. "My traveling days are only beginning," she says.

Now a canny businesswoman, after several decades of financial losses, her present association with Crosby, always a shrewd hand with money, is one of the odd quirks of the entertainment industry resulting from television. Her stake in this series of 26 films should sprinkle some of the Crosby gold on the Swanson bankroll.

What will bring financial success to the Crosby-Swanson alliance should bring unusually entertaining fare to the Nation's huge telefilm audience.

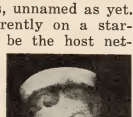
THE gal who started all the plunging neckline controversy when TV was still in diapers is slated for the comeback trail. Faye Emerson is skedded for a TV hostess role next fall for a telefilm series, unnamed as yet. ABC, which is currently on a star-signing spree, will be the host network. Faye has been marking time as a panelist on "I've Got A Secret." . . CBS is importing movieland talent to keep the Godfrey ratings high while the master emcee is in the hospital. Now it's Hollywood hoofer George Murphy who'll take over the Wednesday "Godfrey & Friends" show May 27. . . Julius La Rosa, Godfrey's blushing baritone, is planning an August motor trip cross country. No personal appearances scheduled. Julius wants to "see America first."



EMERSON

Benevolent Boss: Edward R. Murrow, "See It Now" major domo, won a $1,000 prize as a "non-conformist thinker" from a N.Y. department store recently. Ed is turning the money over to his TV staff for a lavish party when the show starts its summer hiatus in June. . . Jo Stafford all set to follow the other femme canaries into TV with a new quarter-hour starrer from Hollywood starting this Sunday. Show, named "Orchid Room," will follow Walter Winchell.

Racket Squad has been confirmed as the summer replacement for "Lucy," starting July 6. Lucy and Desi are still leading the popularity list in five out of six cities, according to the latest Hooperatings. . . "My Little Margie" continues through the hot 'n humid season. . . Pudgy Lou Costello plans to sever his connections with partner Bud Abbott—but only temporarily—while he stars as New York's late mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, in a flicker. Little Lou, who has thus far limited himself to comedy in movies and TV, has already registered the title, "Fighting Flower," for the movie bio. . . Frank Sinatra's proposed telefilm deal with Desilu productions is a remote idea now that he's traipsing after wife Ava Gardner in Europe.

Hats off to Hallmark. It's about time someone realized that the public gets tired of cheap comedy, sickening love, and unconvincing drama that dominate TV. . . Hamlet was something better, finer—a masterpiece of the greatest playwright that ever lived. Here's hoping that we have more of the same, and that other programs are quick to follow Hallmark's example.

I'm one who is finding out that there are some who do not appreciate beautiful musical masterpieces such as are heard on Victory at Sea. Apparently E. N. Eaglesham hasn't tried turning off the volume of his TV set. If he had, he'd find the music adapted to the scenes, giving it the highlights it deserves. MRS. LOUIS PETHO, JR., Gary, Ind.

They Call

Studs, who terms Chet Roble the "jazz man of the half world," stands by while Uncle Chet creates a new melody.

AUTHOR JAMES FARRELL shocked the literati about 17 years ago with his brutal sketches of life on Chicago's South side. Farrell created Studs Lonigan, a slum-bred youngster whose name has become more familiar than Mickey McGuire.

One of Farrell's most enthusiastic admirers at that time was a Chicago-bred product, Louis Terkel whose capsule comment after reading the trilogy was "Jeez, whatta document!" He quoted whole passages from it, pored over the Lonigan stories religiously and, unsolicited, became the books' press agent. It was inevitable that Louis Terkel, from that moment, become known to his intimates as "Studs".

Studs—the Terkel version—is a paradox. Appearance-wise, he resembles a West Side thug, a con man, a character straight from Damon Runyon's Broadway stable. His afternoon headquarters are the bleachers at Comiskey Park when the White Sox are in town. There he compares batting averages with the town's top sports writers while alternately munching a hot dog and cheering the home team.

But at night, he undergoes a chameleon change. Terkel becomes a well-versed disc jockey, chatting about folk music on the west side's F-M station, WFMT. Or he's at the Blue Note where he acts as moderator and coordinator for the folk song productions of "I Come For To Sing."

Studs is a guy who could call Queen Elizabeth "that babe" without being insulting. He would refer to Ethel Barrymore as a "grand old dame" and Miss B. would probably kiss him on both stubbly cheeks.

Studs' TV enture

Around Chicago, Studs is remembered best for his association with Win Stracke, Chet Roble and Bev Younger for a regretfully short-lived restaurant venture on TV, "Studs' Place." The remnants of the business were salvaged after its exodus from TV and the folk-music triumvirate formed the "I Come For To Sing" troupe. Win handles early American songs while Chet, Chicago's live-by-night pianist, interprets frantic jazz tunes.

The voice of the Terkel has been heard around Chicago for some 30 years—ever since his family moved here from the East. Almost immediately, the littlest Terkel scotch-taped himself to a Windy City home. Now his loyalty to the Midwest is stronger than most Chicago-born products. While most show biz personalities have migrated eastward to flounder in New York's jungle, Studs has remained here, strangely content with his simple, undemanding life.

Much of the tenderness, human insight and camaraderie that pervaded "Studs' Place" was founded in his childhood. As son of a hotel owner, Studs grew up in an environment filled with loneliness, but rich in tender emotions. Thus he learned folk music from an old Kentucky couple, opera from an Italian barber and sports from an ex-minor league pitcher—all people who had retired into semi-obscurity.

A Budding Barrister

Although he obtained his law degree from the University of Chicago, Studs never had the yen to practice. Even in school it was a case of unwilling spirit. During class lectures on statutes, torts and court procedure, Studs occupied himself with anagrams, the study of Greek mythology or by just plain snoozing. He got by, though, purely on his glib gab.

The law school career was followed by a stint in Washington as a Civil Service worker. "Thought I'd go nuts counting all day," he shudders. "I sure welcomed the chance to get home."

Studs' first job back in Chicago was a gangster role on radio's Ma Perkins drama. "Only trouble was there was no future in those because I always got killed or sent to the big house. They wouldn't let me be a hero because heroes had to have pear-shaped tones and mine were more apricot-shaped."

Studs' Other Lives

With hero roles unattainable and thug parts rubbing him out, Studs took to writing. His first adaptation for radio was Nelson Ahlgren's "Biceps." This was followed by a script series, "Freedom of Opportunity." After taking on a role of sportscaster, he switched to music and blazed a trail as Chicago's earliest disc jockey. His "Wax Museum" was the musical forerunner of Studs' Place and "I Come For To Sing." Such forays into the musical world stamped him as a "layman-expert" on tune topics and as a result he penned a jazz column for the Chicago Sun-Times for five years.

Studs, who pays little heed to convention, is the perfect example of a rugged individualist. Shown above at a Hawaiian party, he appears with his ever-dangling cigarette—and an incongruous lei.

When Howard Lindsay was looking for an intellectual tough guy to appear in his road-show production of "Detective Story," the Terkel reputation won Studs the role. He traveled with the show in 1950, but parted company after a brief run to return to his beloved Chicago.

In this age of specialization, Studs Terkel seems a misfit. Jack of many trades—actor, a musical authority, baseball enthusiast, writer, producer, TV and radio personality—he's mastered none as a specialty. Studs is a dabbler who remains an individual in an imitative bustling society. He's willing to sit back while the hustlers rush by on their fortune-seeking pursuits. He admits freely that he's a round peg in a square hole in today's civilization and that he'll never be a commercial success. But despite all this, the little man with the eternal cigarette dangling from his mouth, the rolled-up shirt sleeves, the bowties and plaid shirts, is probably one of the happiest—and most respected—guys you can find.

EMCEE JACK PAYNE

EVERY DAY IS

JACQUELINE VAN

EARLY this year, a dapper little writer stepped from behind his typewriter to take over the emcee role on TV's "Hi Ladies." One of the first femmes he encountered was an oversized circus bear, of polar proportions, whose slightest move brought a rumbling protest from the scenery. "Hmm-m, never knew this was in the contract," muttered Jack Payne.

Since those first programs, Jack has come to expect surprises. His guests on the noontime ladies' social have not been limited to visiting celebrities whose interviews you can usually second-guess.

Jack has also held one-sided conversations with a live leopard who playfully chewed his arm, a chimpanzee who behaved like an irresponsible, ill-mannered puppy, a singing parrot who wouldn't, and a penguin who scampered out to take an unguided tour of WGN-TV.

Most of the human guests behave in reg'lar fella fashion. Jack and his staff line up weekly schedules packed with visiting celebrities (appearing in local theater productions or night clubs), big name industrialists, whole choirs and choruses and Chicago residents boasting unusual jobs or odd hobbies. "Hi Ladies" has entertained a 104-year-old gentleman and a 3½-year-old tot who read newspapers on sight. Musical assignments are handled by Mike Douglas, Jacqueline Van, & a combo known as The Starnoters.

The Ladies

And there are scores of ladies who giggle, applaud, cheer and sometimes irk. Once a dear old thing was gifted with a carnation corsage during the show. "Oh, my," wailed she, "this is the third time I've been on this program in the last three years and I've never once got an orchid!"

Jack steels his ulcers for such moments by gulping a quart of milk before each day's show.

His ulcer malady—a by-product of show business—is probably a hangover from the days he eked out his living by writing clever quips for other emcees. This backstage vocation all began in 1934 when the slightly-built, low-pressured Payne got his first radio continuity job with Milwaukee's WTMJ. In 1939, he packed up his portable and embarked for Chicago where he wrote continuity for CBS and then joined WGN.

The Free-Lance Urge

An independent soul, Jack decided in 1944 to try his luck at free-lancing and quickly became both writer and producer of some leading Windy City productions—Don McNeill's "Fun For The Money," which was the first stunt show on TV, "Let's Face It" and "Ladies Be Seated." After producing Tom Moore's radio and TV shows—among them "Hi Ladies"—Jack replaced Tom who had taken over the emcee role vacated by Tommy Bartlett.

Jack's typewriter has been a constant companion and valuable source of revenue. After his graduation from Wisconsin University and Columbia, he earned his living as a writer, first for the New York Daily News, then the Milwaukee Journal, both newspapers of repute in the fourth estate. Jack has also had several poems published in the Saturday Evening Post and New Yorker. His short stories and articles have appeared in Liberty and Argosy.

A bachelor by choice, Jack Payne resides in the bohemian atmosphere of Chicago's Near North side with his black cocker spaniel. But Jack gets plenty of female attention because on his TV show, every day is ladies' day.

"Hi Ladies" is seen at noon Mon. thru Fri. on WGN-TV (channel 9).

THE CASE FOR PHONEVISION

by JACK MABLEY

ABC's mammoth production of Tale of Two Cities was a paradox. The show was spectacular, impressive, and a disappointment.

The disappointment was really no fault of the producers, who accomplished amazing results with a TV camera. The fault lies with the entire system of television which demands that a program shall be 30 minutes in length, or 60 minutes, and no longer.

Watching Tale of Two Cities in two half-hour parts on consecutive Sundays merely whetted my appetite.

The Hollywood Influence

The show was done on such a lavish scale, using the huge ABC movie lot studio in Hollywood, that it was natural to compare it with a movie instead of with other television programs.

In sets, in acting, in dialogue it compared favorably with feature motion pictures. But just when it was getting interesting, the half-hour was up. It was most unsatisfactory.

This essay wasn't intended to be a plug for phonevision, but it is difficult to overlook the advantage of box office TV at a time like this.

An hour and a half or a two hour production of Tale of Two Cities, financed by viewers at home at $1 a set, would have been an exciting piece of entertainment.

There is a lot of opposition to box office television. It comes from the advertising industry, from the television industry, and from the theater owners.

The Viewers' Choice

I have always liked the idea, because the viewer has nothing to lose. We'd have everything we now have in commercial television, and would have the additional choice of buying TV programs that would be far superior to what we're seeing now, and would have no advertising.

For instance, if phonevision were in use, I have an idea most of us would have seen the Marciano-Walcott fight.

We would see some first rate motion pictures, and some decent football games. And Chicago might get a full schedule of professional football in the fall, instead of the Thanksgiving morning game in Detroit, period.

And we'd see the rest of Tale of Two Cities. I hope ABC will save those Hollywood sets for a couple of years, when we should have box office TV.

Argument For Commercial TV

One of the best arguments for commercial television is Kraft Television Theatre. As much as I've enjoyed and admired their plays, I didn't realize how outstanding some of their productions were until the sixth anniversary program, when they put on excerpts from a half-a-dozen top shows.

If more advertisers were able to pay the budget that goes into Kraft, if more sponsors were satisfied with the dignified commercials of Kraft, if more producers had the respect for the intelligence of their audience that Kraft has, there'd be no need for box office TV. Or even educational TV.

Kup's CP Telethon

TV PLEADS A CAUSE

The staging of telethons has been TV's most legitimate excuse to lure entertainment "biggies" to the television stage—without promise of scale wage. True the payment for services rendered is made—but from the viewers' pockets. And it goes straight into the tills of charity.

Today, despite the networks' "thumbs-down" policy on nationwide telethons, Chicago's TV scene is bustling with benefits. Jim Moran recently cushioned the cancer fund. This week-end, the longest telethon in TV history is in the offing.

One of the country's worthiest charities will get a hefty boost when Irv Kupcinet, Windy City benefit-minded columnist, conducts a 28-hour telethon for cerebral palsy. The mammoth variety opus, climaxing the Chicago CP Association drive, will be carried on WBKB (channel 7) from 10 p.m. Friday to 2 a.m. Sunday. Kup will try to pad the fund by some $500,000.

He'll have the top names in show business to back him up. Using his heavyweight influence, Kup has lined up this star-studded cast: Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Van Johnson, Dean Martin & Jerry Lewis, Tony Martin, Jack E. Leonard, Frankie Laine, Dorothy Shay, the combined casts of "New Faces" and "Pal Joey," Don McNeill's Breakfast Club gang, the Super Circus troupe and every TV and radio star on the Chicago scene.

Backstage crews have been provided—1,500 to 2,000 telephone operators; a Yellow Cab fleet to pick up contributions and entertainers; 500 volunteers for checking purposes and general assistance, and food and drink services. The pathos element will be represented by cerebral palsy victims, both youngsters and adults. Even the suspense element of contests with gifts and prizes has been brought in.

Telethon parties in viewers' homes have been proposed to aid the CP cause. Week-end house parties might be another answer. And with such a lineup of talent, where could you get better parlor entertainment?

THIS WEEK'S NETWORK FIGHTS

(Subject to change. Champions are not rated. No. 1 in each division is top contender.)

VINNIE MARTINEZ, Welterweight, VS. DANNY GIOVANELLI, Lightweight, from New York; Friday, May 22, WNBQ (channel 5) 9:00 p.m.

Martinez is rated 13th; Giovanelli is rated 14th. Madison Square Garden reopens with an outstanding match between a pair of local young prospects. Both are good punchers, and a K.O. shouldn't be too surprising. Martinez is favored. He has boxed three main events in the Garden, while it's Giovanelli's first try. This may be a factor. Giovanelli could surprise, though. He punches to the body as well as to the head, while Martinez is mostly a head fighter.

RANDY SANDY VS. TUZO "KID" PORTUGUESE, Middleweights, from Brooklyn; Monday, May 25, WGN-TV (channel 9) 8:30 p.m.

Sandy is favored. His height and reach will be of great advantage against the short, aggressive Costa Rican, and he may surprise with his punching power. If Sandy can get by Portuguese, he will be in line for good money matches next season.

JOHNNY SAXTON VS. JOE MICELI, Welterweights, from Detroit; Wednesday, May 27, WBBM-TV (channel 4) 9:00 p.m.

Saxton is rated 4th; Miceli is rated 5th. This is a return match. Saxton won a decision in his 12th pro fight in 1950. He finished strong as Miceli faded in the home stretch. But Saxton's recent performances haven't been too impressive. He may suffer his first defeat against the improved Miceli, who has lately faced some of the top-notchers, such as Bobby Dykes and Pierre Langlois.

SPORTSCAST

WE can all look forward to more major collegiate football games on TV this fall. The NCAA, a stringent governing body of college athletics, plans to televise 13 games next season. The NCAA TV ledger calls for 12 top-flight Saturday afternoon games plus a Thanksgiving day classic. . . The games will be scheduled to cover the country geographically, with no more than two games coming from any one sector. No college will be allowed to appear more than once.

Last year, on NCAA approval, some 40 sell-out games were televised. The same policy will apply this year, and small colleges will be permitted to televise to their heart's content on a local basis.

Bill Bailey, TV Guide's Celebrity Golf Champion, is already touring the golf links to sharpen up for his title defense in August. Bailey, who occasionally breaks 80 and holds an honorary membership at Tam O'Shanter, plays a different course every week. . . Danny O'Neil, please note!

Don Murphy, IBC publicist, confirmed reports that the long awaited Johnny Bratton-Johnny Saxton fight has been set for Chicago, June 24, with this cautionary note: The boys have been signed four times before! . . . Now that Bratton licked Minelli last week, he may hold out for another title shot at Kid Gavilan. . . Don't let "Bang Bang" Womber's defeat of Gavilan (WBKB, May 2nd) fool you. . . It could never happen again. The Havana Hawk is prone to laziness in non-title bouts and looked bad against Vic Cardell before butchering Chuck Davey in a title match.

The muddled middleweight picture promises to come to a showdown in June. Ever since Ray Robinson's retirement, Charley Humez of France, Randy Turpin of England and Bobo Olson of Hawaii "claimed" the bauble. . . Now to cause even more confusion, Robinson says he'll launch a comeback if the title leaves the United States!

The issue may be settled next month after Bobo Olson meets Paddy Young at Madison Square Garden, June 19, for the U.S. middleweight title. . . Then Randy Turpin meets Charley Humez in London, June 9, for the European version. The winners will then meet for the World's Middleweight Championship.

Join Ed Pazdur every Sunday night, 10:00 p.m., WBBM-TV for top flight HFC stock car racing from Soldier Field and keep score with Ed and Jack Drees every Monday, WBKB, 9:00 p.m., on Pontiac's Boxing From Rainbo show.

LEN O'CONNOR

A VOICE and EXPERIENCE

IT may be said of Len O'Connor, the silvery-haired newscaster of channel 5, that his voice is soothing but not stupefying. Early-birds who catch his local news-breaks on NBC's dawn extravaganza, "Today," may be reasonably sure they will not be unduly aroused or alarmed. Neither need they fear the O'Connor charm will prove so extreme as to lull them to sound slumber.

Actually the followers of WNBQ's fairest-haired boy can be confident they will receive as complete and accurate a report of late Windy City happenings as time will allow. Nearly 20 years as a newsman has qualified Len to judge events with an unprejudiced eye.

A Quick Start

The portly reporter with the platinum pompadour broke into the fourth estate immediately after finishing college in 1935. It's a local legend that he got his diploma at 11 o'clock one morning and by 3 p.m. was busy with his first interview with the fabulous if frustrated King Levinsky of boxing fame. The school was St. Ambrose College in Davenport, Iowa, and Len's first job, which spanned a year, was as a reporter for the Davenport Times.

The robust O'Connor acquired more journalistic know-how as editor of a religious publication and, after returning to his native Chicago, as a public relations man for a mail-order firm. Then he joined NBC's Chicago newsroom staff. Three years as a radio news editor was followed by three years of army service including overseas duty. In 1946, he rejoined NBC where at one time he energetically engineered 15 news shows and four other radio scripts a week. He still has a daily wire-recorded news stanza on WMAQ.

The Smiling Irishman

That Len and TV have dovetailed is due, in part at least, to his impressive phiz. It would be unfair to say that this gent of Gaelic descent has a map on which every county in Ireland could be charted, but it's undeniably true that he bears Irish features—a round, open face, wide brow and smiling eyes.

The smooth-spoken newshawk didn't win his video laurels on appearance alone. Along network row, he's noted as one of the most incisive of interviewers. Many a local VIP has squirmed when put on the spot by O'Connor's trenchant technique which he uses to get the facts behind a story. Opposition hasn't dimmed the fellow's zeal though, and his methods apparently pay off. Last year he was cited by a civic organization for a dramatic radio series on Chicago's narcotic problem.

Almost 51 but seemingly quite hale, Len will probably be greeting Chicago's early risers for another half-century or so with some well-chosen, well-spoken words on the day's doings.

Channel Chatter

THE first papers in the Jack Eigen-NBC divorce case are expected momentarily after the controversial disc jockey goes the way of Tom Duggan—to ABC. Eigen, who has been termed by some "the half-pint with the gallon-sized ego," will do a Monday night interview show on WBKB. Latest reports are that Little Jack is gunning for a nightly simulcast over ABC. NBC has reason to groan. Loved or hated, Jack has brought in a king-sized chunk of sponsors' dough to their coffers. It's reported that Eigen's salary will zoom to 2½ times its NBC sum by the move.

EIGEN

Ed Allen, WBKB's muscle-man, was the recent recipient of a plaque from Tomorrow's Man magazine for "outstanding achievement in the promotion of physical culture for women." . . Ever wonder what happens to Chicago TV stars? Here's one case: Jerry Allan, former free-lance announcer and emcee on various early Chi TV stanzas, is now handling publicity, public relations and promotions in Indianapolis. His main account: the Indianapolis Speedway. . . Switcheroo: Hollywoodite Allen Jeffory has come to the Windy City to make his mark. The former announcer on Comedy Hour, Dangerous Assignment and Dragnet claims his income here has already quadrupled. Who said Chicago had no TV future?

In the offing: A "Time Out For Fun" TV audience participation show featuring Fran Allison and Jim Ameche as co-emcees with fabulous vacations as grand prizes. Les Lear, Welcome Travelers producer, and George Anderson, are pushing the package.

THANKS, WMAQ, FOR MORE UTLEY

by WM. A. QUE

IF YOU'RE LIKE I AM—too lazy or too busy to expend the time and brain-flexing it takes to understand the news and its meanings—you'll be happy to hear that our boy, Clifton Utley, is giving out with his sharp summaries and commentaries at a time of day when we working people can listen and be enlightened.

UTLEY

WMAQ has given the Clifton Utley News Program the 9:30 p. m. slot, Mondays through Fridays, for a five-minute commentary on important news subjects. If it were anyone else, I'd say: "Not enough time!" But you can learn plenty from Utley in that short period.

I have always felt, just as most people do, that spending a little time learning about the domestic and international news situation is a wise investment. And I can guarantee you there are few interpreters or judges better than Utley.

It is heartening to see that the short, scholarly program is being sent out over the NBC network. It won't be long before the rest of the country discovers we have a most capable news analyst in this neck of the woods.

This new show means more work for Cliff. He'll continue his Monday through Friday programs at 5:00 p. m. over WMAQ as well as the 15-minute commentary on Sunday nights at 10:00 p.m. Combined with his television news programs on WNBQ—Monday through Friday at 5:50 p.m. and 10:15 p. m.—Cliff certainly has a work-horse schedule. But how he thrives on it!

DEAR BOSS:

If my favorite singer, Muriel Cigar, ever got married would her husband hand out boxes of people when he became a proud poppa?

I was losing ($2.76 ain't hay) in a high stakes poker game the other Friday night. In sheer desperation, I suggested we interrupt the game to catch the first of the new (Howard) Miller at Midnight shows on Channel 9. I'm glad I did—and not just because the guys forgot to get back to the poker. That radio feller looks pretty good in front of a camera.

Miller has a nice little clambake there and doesn't try to be too cute. He talked to his guests (Eartha Kitt and The Hilltoppers) in a language they understood—which helps. But my favorite was his running gag with pingpong balls and mousetraps. Shades of Old Garroway, no less—and that ain't bad shades!

If the television "Families" all lived in actual homes on actual streets in a certain town, I'd like to live there too—with certain reservations. I'd want our mortgaged manor to be right between Ethel and Albert Arbuckle on one side of the picket fence and the Ozzie Nelsons on the other. I'd rent a bedroom in the attic to Robinson Peepers.

And across the alley I'd like to have good old Dr. Fixum (for when the basement floods or the baby swallows a coat hanger). But, if you don't mind I'd insist on living clear across the town from the Chester A. Rileys and the Meet Millie Family. Somehow Millie and the Rileys don't seem to be real people who could live next door. They rather seem to be stage folks playing at being our neighbors. And that's why I can't laugh at them the way I do at the Arbuckles, the Nelsons and Mr. Peepers.

Wistful Watchers

I wish you'd ask some of these TV sponsors how they'd explain to a small child where his favorite programs go when they leave the channels. How many good children's programs must we lose to idiotic men who can't see a wholesome show when it's there? . . . It hurts these little ones to lose a pal—they live in each story and know each puppet and clown. . .

Why does Fred Waring barge into every scene on his program? His shows have some unusual settings, but who messes up the illusion?—Fred and his madly flailing arms. . . We know he has talent and conducts beautifully, but doesn't he have enough glory without constantly storming in and out?

MRS. RHAE SWISHER, Chicago

Bring back those Keystone Cops. . . —Ed.

Funny Face

Why do so many entertainers think their facial contortions continue to be so funny? Groucho Marx's contortions with bleary eyes and 'segar' have become shop-worn. . .

R. S. WICKHAM, Mishawaka, Ind.

Groucho can do nothing about bleary eyes—'segar' is a prop. . . —Ed.

Hoodwinked?

What's My Line sure takes the prize. A person would have to be pretty dumb to believe they don't know their guests with all the blunders they make. It's so obviously a fake from the beginning.

Dear Mr. Kubicek:

We are well pleased with the response received from our 1/4 page display advertisements in your publication. As you know, our type of advertising is one of keeping our name in front of the public constantly, in an interesting manner. Heretofore, our retail advertising was placed in the Chicago Newspapers, being displayed every week.

In taking a survey of our oncoming retail trade, we were quite surprised to find a host of new customers, whom we apparently had been unable to successfully reach through newspaper advertising, in the past.

We intend to continue our advertising in the T.V. Guide and are looking forward to continued success with it.

Very truly yours,

ARTHUR MURRAY PARTY

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Mrs. Arthur (Kathryn) Murray and Peter Birch rehearse for dance scenes on The Arthur Murray Party.

THE ARTHUR MURRAY PARTY is one of TV's genuine family affairs—the costs are paid by Murray to publicize his dance studios, and Kathryn, his wife, serves as star and hostess on the show each week. Despite the nepotism, which has killed off many a show, this program emerged during the last season as one of the better half-hours of variety entertainment on TV.

Party, which had been a Sunday night feature on DuMont, is now in the middle of a two-month vacation. The Murrays, their youthful dance instructors and varied guests, go on CBS in late June. They'll take over as the summer replacement for the vacationing Time to Smile, and their fans can also look for them on CBS in the fall.

Under the careful guidance of the Murrays, the show has managed to put over its theme of going to a party. The setting represents a large dance studio at which the husband-and-wife team toss a shindig for their guests. Most of those invited, of course, comprise the personable dance instructors, but space is reserved before the center spotlight for the weekly name guests.

Murray's affluence is easily visible on this score. Able to afford some of the best, he has corralled some top-name personalities, many of whom also appear as guests on such programs as Milton Berle's Star Theater, and Toast of the Town.

This is not to take credit away from Mrs. Murray, however. Freely admitting that she's a 46-year-old grandmother, she constantly surprises with her acrobatic antics in her dance specialties with Peter Birch or the June Taylor ensemble.

ORIGINAL amateur hour

AFTER almost a year of public clamor for his return, Ted Mack and his Original Amateur Hour have been brought back by NBC. The program has not changed, except that it has been trimmed to a half-hour. Emphasis is still on tyro performers, many of the off-beat variety, who hope that an appearance on Amateur Hour will provide that one big boost into the entertainment big-time.

The program, originated by the late Major Edward Bowes, has become a national institution via its radio and TV productions and the touring units which play theaters across the country. Mack is adhering faithfully to the original format, except to rule out the gong with which Major Bowes cut short performers whom he considered below par. Return of Amateur Hour to TV won't mean much to more sophisticated viewers, but the program's ability to lure many viewers has been proved.

Since the acts are culled from non-professional ranks, the audience won't see polished artists. But every would-be star must begin somewhere, and Amateur Hour has already been the starting point for such favorites as Frank Sinatra, Paul Winchell and Ray Malone.

Sympathy Toward Novices

Ted's sympathy for the novices he presents is easily apparent on the screen. This imparts a warm, friendly feeling to the show, and sets both performers and viewers at ease. There are no restrictions imposed on the type of acts presented. Appearing on the program to date have been not only singers and dancers but yo-yo spinners and boys who play the "musical bones."

Mack's new sponsoring firm apparently recognizes that it has acquired a good, inexpensive show and is doing its best not to let viewers forget it. Not only is there a mammoth display of the sponsor's product, but the commercials come fast and furious.

IN THE CAST

ONE evening in 1948 Ken Murray strolled into Ciro's, a Hollywood night club, and spotted an attractive hat check girl. Never given to delays, he hired her for his Blackouts revue, then in its seventh and last year of a record run.

That's how Laurie Anders, the girl from Goose Egg, Wyo., really entered show business. Murray detected her Western twang and when she said she really preferred "the wide open spaces," he devised a brief cowgirl costume for her and she became "Miss Wide Open Spaces."

Laurie overcame a physical handicap early in life. At the age of six she was paralyzed, following a bout with influenza. To speed recovery, her parents gave her dancing lessons.

She became the star performer of Goose Egg, taking part in home talent and school shows.

It was from a secretarial position that she turned to singing with a Western band. Finally she hit Hollywood and the hat check job.

Laurie Anders: the girl from Goose Egg.

Laurie's five foot, two; is wed to Robert Zoris, a dancer. Her popularity was established when she attracted an estimated 115,000 persons to stores during a recent tour.

TV in the news

EXPERTS who predicted that 100 new television stations would go on the air in 1953, revised their estimates this week. The number will be closer to 250 or 300.

Annual hassle between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the public over college football telecasts got under way with announcement of NCAA's 1953 football plan. Colleges were asked to vote acceptance of a scheme which includes 10 or 11 complete games on Saturdays, and a couple of Saturdays devoted to showing bits of two or three games on the network. Colleges would be limited to one appearance on television during the season, and those that didn't make TV last year would be given preference in 1953.

The key to international television, said engineer Neal McNaughten, is the tiny new transistor which does the work of the vacuum tube but on much less power. With transistors boosting the power along the way, cables under the Atlantic Ocean could make possible an exchange of telecasts between Europe and North America.

A demonstration of 3-D television in Los Angeles got snarled and the members of the audience had to wear their polaroid glasses upside down and backwards in order to see the test program. Consensus: 3-D TV is still a long, long way off.

Hollywood's film industry decided to air a television show in the fall. The half hour will be made up of movie star appearances and clips from new feature movies. ABC stations are set to carry the program which, of course, will be 100 per cent film.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

TELEVISION shows feature plays by Dickens, Shaw and Shakespeare. Just what TV needs—new writers.

One producer now has an idea for a great new panel show called "What In The Dickens."

Shakespeare's Hamlet was a big success. With four corpses in one scene, it was better than Martin Kane. The kids took one look at the ghost of Hamlet's father and yelled: "Hey, look! Superman!" One kid thinks the show was sponsored by that big department store — Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.

But it was wonderful to hear Maurice Evans reciting: "TV or not TV, that is the question."

When Hamlet first came out in tights, Junior mistook him for one of the June Taylor dancers. Hamlet is the one guy on TV who can look unhappier than Ed Sullivan. A few more troubles and he could qualify for Strike It Rich.

The next big Shakespeare show will be Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz in I Love Juliet.

Hamlet puzzled one whodunit fan. He knew whodunit. He just can't figure out what they did.

Strange Things Are Happening To RED BUTTONS

HE HITS THE BIG-TIME JUST BY REMEMBERING THAT A COMIC HAS TO BE HUMBLE AND LOVABLE

AT a lavish CBS cocktail party for Red Buttons, he looked around the celebrity-filled room and muttered: "Imagine! Six months ago, I was just another bum."

Yet, Red was a success before he followed Lucy and Desi into living rooms across the country. He commanded up to $700 a performance, and often did three shows a night.

This opulence allowed him to move into four rooms and terrace in an apartment house in Manhattan's fashionable Sutton Place.

But Red had spent half his life playing in burlesque, at weddings and other celebrations. And he still feels unfamiliar with success. James Thurber once wrote that he felt he had never removed his overcoat in the house of life. In the house of fame, Red has never seemed able to doff his tasselled stocking cap.

An "overnight" success at 34, Red says, "I was a hit because this medium allows me to entertain not 200 but millions of people. But I also know my business."

Red's business involves ingratiating himself weekly to each of his viewers, according to Marlo Lewis, executive producer of the show. Lewis indoctrinates all comics under his wing with his belief that: "A comic has to be lovable and humble. The lady on Park Avenue and the truck driver from Kansas City must feel that here is a normal, nice guy coming into their living room."

Red and Helayne: a musical evening at home. Often they just read the dictionary.

Properly indoctrinated, Red started repeating to himself at rehearsals, "Gotta be humble, gotta be lovable."

So strong a dose of humility soon tired even the producer, who took to mumbling at odd moments, "This is the lovable Red Buttons show."

Before the cameras, Red gives the impression of complete relaxation, a state often related to his charm. But his close friends believe it's more a testimony to his acting ability. They contend that if he isn't scared, he's at least worried stiff.

He considers himself a perfectionist. Thursday through Monday, with four writers, four permanent members of the acting staff, his director, producer and an assorted crew, Red works at a steady pitch to put together his half-hour show. "I can't afford to straddle the fence," he says. "In this business, I'd get knocked off."

Julie Oshins, star of Guys and Dolls and perhaps Red's closest friend, often meets with Red after their Monday night performances. They have dinner and talk, sometimes staying up until 6 A.M. Oshins says: "He can't seem to unwind. Last fall, when he was putting his first sketches together, I was on the road. He must have called me 30 times. So nervous, that guy!"

Red is reputed to have an intuitive knowledge of what's good for him. He chalks it up to 18 years in show business. "It's really simple," Red says, "you just don't do the wrong things. If you can avoid mistakes, everything after that is right."

Informality Is Keyword

At preliminary rehearsals, which take place in a large, dismal room over Grand Central Station, the Buttons cast seems no more serious than a high-school group putting together the junior-class play.

The camaraderie seems to trickle down from Red. One member of his troupe observes: "Red doesn't get dramatic because Red doesn't think he's God. He believes a producer is hired to produce, a director to direct, and actors to act."

Even as late as the afternoon of the show, Red is still trying new lines, moving amiably about stage as directed by his crew. And although he doesn't appear to be unnerved, he rushes from stage to dressing room to munch on bars of chocolate.

Away from the theater, Red is quiet and withdrawn. Pinned down to an interview, he sat drinking coffee and talked about everything but himself. He explained his reticence with: "I'm just a normal guy trying to lead a normal life." To describe himself, he coined a word, "ambivert"— meaning half-introvert, half-extrovert. Off stage, Red feels introverted.

Buttons Is Cute

Viewers, women especially, may think Buttons adopted his name because he's alleged to be as cute as one. The fact is, he got it along with his first job and a bellhop's uniform. His hair, then red, has since turned brown, and, more recently, gray.

The son of an immigrant hat-blocker, Red was born Aaron Chwatt and grew up on the streets of New York. He was graduated from Evander Childs High School in the Bronx.

Red and his second wife, the former Helayne McNorton, of Ohio, put much of the time they have together into an endeavor they call "improving their minds." The winter before last, they took a memory course, and last winter they were engrossed in Webster's, enlarging their vocabulary.

Red pretends to beg CBS for TV chance.

'It's the same old dirty East River.'

Because of a newly-awakened interest in learning, an experience Helayne describes as "wonderful," she believes Red is "more deep, now. Since I got him interested in psychology," she says, "he's so much more aware of things."

But, occasionally, Red stares moodily out over his 18th-floor terrace that faces the East River. "When I was a kid, we used to play in the streets near the river, every day, any time we wanted to. Now that I've made all this money, I'm still looking at the East River. It's the same dirty water. Only it costs more to look at it now. It costs a lot more—in a lot of ways."

THE MAN WITH THE HOLE IN HIS HEAD

TELEVISION has been accused of not using all the electronics tricks available to its cameras. The charge doesn't apply to Ernie Kovacs, who delights New York audiences with his early-morning stunts and who has done network shows for the three major chains. He launches the CBS show, Take A Guess, this month.

Kovacs has done enough tricks with the cameras to win the title of the "Electronics Comedian." The title rests firmly and modestly on his curly and slightly square head.

But the best of his tricks, which has mystified television audiences from coast to coast, is the "Hole in The Head" routine. This sets him apart from other comedians with a hole in their heads because in this case the hole isn't really there. It's all done with the magic of the television camera—or of a couple of television cameras.

The hole in the head stunt was devised by Kovacs and worked out by Ned Cramer, WCBS-TV director, with the aid of staff engineers.

The key to the whole stunt is a device known as an electronic matting amplifier. The matting device, developed by CBS technicians, is a complex instrument capable of many things, including blocking out specified parts of a picture.

The matting device will block out any part of a picture that is black, leaving transparency in place of the black.

In the Kovacs' stunt, a black patch is placed on Ernie's forehead. The camera which is focused on him does not pick up a picture in the area represented by the black patch. The One camera is focused on Ernie, but an electronic device screens out area covered by patch, so it seems transparent.

Second camera is centered on Andy McKay, seen with pair of binoculars.

The two pictures are superimposed so that McKay seems to be visible through a hole in Kovacs' head, on monitor shot.

patch area is seen as though it were transparent.

A second camera is then focused on another scene, in one case Actor Andy McKay, who is staring through a pair of binoculars. One picture is superimposed on the other by the television director, so that McKay appears in the hole in Kovacs' head.

The trick also has been used so that a newspaper appeared behind Kovacs' head. When he moved, the headline type could be read through the seeming hole in the head.

Kovacs, and his understanding and energetic crew, have developed other electronics stunts. One makes use of what TV cameramen call "reverse scanning." The camera can be adjusted so that the performer in front of it appears to be facing in the opposite direction.

By using this trick on one camera, and another camera showing him facing in the proper direction, Kovacs can—and frequently does—make it appear as if he is dueling himself.

Ernie and his gang also pioneered a stunt using the camera's known ability to view the set as if it were upside down. Kovacs—let's take this slowly now—had a set built upside down, so that the floor looked like the ceiling, and vice versa. Then the camera reversed the scene, so that Kovacs appeared to be walking upside down on the ceiling.

One result of this stunt was that when Ernie poured water from a pitcher—it poured upward.

The "Hole in the Head" is still his prize effort. If you know anybody who needs a hole in his head, Ernie is the man who can supply it.

EDITH HEAD'S

Fashions

COMPLETE femininity keynotes the new spring styles for 1953, especially in accessories. Latest innovation for the slender girl with the small waist is the "Maypole Look" —gaily colored streamers of ribbons flowing from her waistline. Since this is the season for small waistlines, you should start whittling yours soon.

The glamor girls have borrowed from grandmother's era and are striving for that sash-with-bow-in-back effect. However, instead of the wide sash and big bow, they are using inch-wide ribbons for the diminutive look.

One, two or three strings of ribbon can be used, and depending upon the color and style of your dress, they can be of the bon bon colors—pale pink, blue and yellow—or of the brighter scarlet colors.

Ribbons at the waist, rather than a belt, can be an asset to any figure as it allows control of the waistline. Of course, girls with short waistlines should be careful not to wear too many ribbons.

The colored streamers are wonderful for the new chiffon evening dresses, too. Also for evening, tie tiny bunches of flowers on the end of the ribbons.

When planning your accessories for 1953, remember that the new style emphasizes the "prettiness" look.

Sandy Meets The Law

OLD ladies in Keokuk who consider gambling one of the deadly sins become horse race fans at this season, when television brings Native Dancer, Correspondent and such celebrated critters into their living rooms. They get to meet some interesting horses this way and, if they look sharp, some interesting people, too. Any time they see one of Don Ross's Brandywine Farm horses in the walking ring, chances are the gentleman leading him is Slewfoot Sandy.

"You know Sandy," says Buddy Raines, the Brandywine trainer. "Big old groom, been with me 15 years.

"I run a little mare named Whipsaw in New York one day and Sandy bets $200 on her. I warned him, 'There's a filly from Chicago in this race, Sandy, and she can fly,' but he wouldn't listen. Sure enough, that filly from Chicago—it was that horse Ben Jones had named Twosy—she beats us.

"A week later, Sandy goes to a horse room on Long Island and says, 'Gimme $200 on that bay mare of Ben Jones, beat Whipsaw a neck last week. She's going at Garden State Park.'

"The man finds Twosy entered in the sixth at Garden State and Sandy hands over $200. The man tells him to sign a slip. 'I don't sign no slips,' Sandy says. 'Where's Artie that's always workin' here?' The man says to never mind Artie and sign the slip, so Sandy marks it with an X and the man flashes a badge and pinches him. 'Well I be jiggered,' Sandy says, 'I bet $200 with the law.'

"Next day he tells me he's got to have time off to go decorate his sister's grave, but later a man tells me that he really went to court in Mineola. They show him the slip he signed and the $200 and he says it ain't his. 'I signed that slip, all right,' he says. 'but there's only $200 here. That mare win at 2 to 1, and I want $600.'

"They tell him to take the stand but he walks up and puts an elbow on the judge's bench. 'Judge,' he says, 'if the cops are so hard up they got to make book, that's okay with me. But I been rubbin' horses all my life and wherever I go I bet and wherever they bet me they pay me. If the cops will bet and not pay, I say the hell with 'em and they can keep the money.'

"They ask him how long he knows Artie and he says maybe 10, 15, 20 years. 'I first meet him the year Maedic was a two-year-old. I was rubbin' Maedic and he was workin' in the same barn.'

"'Who's Maedic?' the Judge says, and Sandy blows his top.

"'You don't know Maedic?' he says. 'Wasn't no faster two-year-old. Win everything in sight at two and shoulda win the Derby. Nuts to the whole dopey lot of you.'"

"He just up and walked out of court," Buddy says.
